Course Description

Hands-on learning is exciting, but it can quickly turn into complete chaos without the right classroom management strategies, routines and supports. How can you make sure that students are really learning and not just making a mess?

The Arts Integration Classroom Management Online Course walks you through exactly what you need to create a classroom environment that is inviting, managed, and supports all learners. So you can focus on teaching and not managing.

Course Outcomes

- Discover how to pace the yearly curriculum and classroom lessons to use arts integration in order to meet the needs of all learners.
- Design a plan for the use of group, individual student, and teacher workspaces, including the use of transitional spaces in the classroom as a means for teaching students to use materials properly.
- Develop a set of procedural methods for building positive relationships with students which reinforce positive behaviors, and include methods for interventions when necessary. These will support the use of arts-integrated instruction in the classroom.
- Select strategies for teaching arts-integrated lessons for whole classes and small groups, as well as for leading students in independent arts-integrated learning.
